

A photograph showing a coyote in the center, looking towards a dog on the right. Another dog is in the foreground on the left, and a third dog is in the foreground on the right. The background is a dark, wooded area.

4 FAST FACTS ON COYOTE HOUNDING

1

Hounds running at large are a threat to not only coyotes, but also to non-targeted wild animals like deer.

2

Hounders are often miles away from their hounds and have no control over them.

3

Hounds terrorize a lone coyote for miles, often resulting in injuries, until the exhausted animal gives up and is ultimately killed.

4

Hounding violates landowner rights and places people, their property and their animals in danger.

Be a Vermont coyote advocate by joining us at
ProtectOurWildlifeVT.org

